

The University of Arizona's

Summer in Montana

The world's leading experts in Indigenous Governance are making tracks for Montana this June

The classes (each of which meets for one week) are taught by experts in the field and are designed for graduate students (including both law and Native Studies students), tribal leaders, attorneys, and those who work with and for Tribal and First Nations governments. You choose which courses and how many to take. All courses will be held at the Salish and Kootenai Tribal College on the Flathead Reservation in Montana.

June 10-14

Child Welfare, Family Law, and the American Indian Child

Barbara Atwood, University of Arizona College of Law

Addressing Domestic Violence

Melissa Tatum, University of Arizona College of Law

June 17-21

Native Governments in Action

Stephen Cornell, Univ of Arizona Udall Center for Studies in Public Policy

June 24-28

Indigenous Peoples in the Inter-American Human Rights System

Robert A. Williams, Jr., University of Arizona College of Law

Indigenous Economic Theory

Ronald Trosper, University of Arizona American Indian Studies

three weeks, five courses, five credits

registration and other details coming soon

JAMES E. ROGERS
COLLEGE OF LAW

INDIGENOUS PEOPLES
LAW & POLICY
PROGRAM